

Editor's Note

Welcome to this latest issue of FORUM KOMUNIKASI, the biannual journal of the Faculty of Communication and Media Studies, Universiti Teknologi MARA. As we continue to serve as a platform for robust intellectual discourse, we are pleased to present a collection of works that embody the journal's commitment to embracing both transdisciplinary and multidisciplinary approaches in media and communication studies.

In this issue, we feature a diverse range of research that underscores the evolving landscape of communication in today's interconnected world. From insightful explorations of mass media to critical analyses of cultural dynamics, societal shifts, and the implications of new media technologies, the contributions offer fresh perspectives and in-depth discussions that resonate across academic disciplines.

Our contributors, comprising both seasoned scholars and emerging voices delve into themes that not only reflect the complexities of modern media and communication but also engage with broader societal questions. Their work invites readers to consider the various intersections of media, culture, and technology, while also highlighting the critical role of communication in shaping our global narrative.

We extend our deepest gratitude to all the authors for their scholarly contributions and to our peer reviewers, whose expertise and dedication ensures the quality of this journal. As always, we are inspired by the rigorous inquiry and diverse worldviews represented in these pages, and we are confident that the research featured here will contribute meaningfully to the ongoing conversations within the field.

Thank you for your continued support of FORUM KOMUNIKASI. We invite you to immerse yourself in this issue and engage with the thought-provoking ideas presented by our esteemed contributors.